19th Century Caucasian Talish Carpet

Description

This is not your usual Talish: the field is red rather than blue and the main border is green rather than ivory. The warm red field of this southeastern Caucasian rug has two boxes and a scattering of iconic Talish volute knots. These knots appear again in the main band along with characteristic â€œdiceâ€. The jog in the lower inner guard indicates a weavers change of mind in this seemingly unique.
